

The Lopez Historical Society
and Mary Fagerholm-Reece Present:
A Lopez Legacy

In 1869, Mary Reece-Fagerholm's family took root on a remote island in the Salish Sea.

Charles Brown, his wife Conna and their four little girls had arrived in June of that year, soon building a house and a new life near Port Stanley.

Join us for this special lecture and slide show and learn about some of the early settler families of Lopez Island. Mary will share the story of the Browns; her great, great grandparents and other early Lopez families.
